Taking the Worst of the Worst Off the Streets

New York/New Jersey Regional Fugitive Task Force  Devon Reves, one of “New York State’s 100 Most Wanted Fugitives” and a “New York State Division of Parole Most Wanted Fugitive,” was arrested on May 17, 2005 by members of the NY/NJ Regional Fugitive Task Force in coordination with the Capital District Fugitive Task Force (CDFTF) located in Albany, New York. Reves was wanted for an incident which occurred in Troy, New York on March 25, 2005 in which he allegedly robbed and abducted a fourteen-year-old female. The victim was able to escape by jumping out of a moving vehicle, then run into a convenience store. At the time of the incident, Reves had been on parole for a 1999 conviction for armed home invasion in which he raped, robbed, and sodomized a female victim. He was also wanted by NY Parole for violation of parole for failing to register as a sex offender and wanted in Pennsylvania on a narcotics warrant. After a week-long investigation, it was determined that Reves was staying at an apartment building in Albany, New York. During surveillance of the building, he was observed walking towards a vehicle and was taken into custody without incident. 	  New York State  “100 Most Wanted  Fugitive”      Devon Reves   Wanted for Attempted  Abduction
Great Lakes Regional Fugitive Task Force  On May 18, 2005, members of the Great Lakes Regional Fugitive Task Force (GLRFTF) arrested Eric Winfrey in Oak Creek, Wisconsin. Winfrey was wanted by the St. Charles County, Missouri Police Department for felony tampering and as a prime suspect in a homicide that occurred in June of 2004 during an attempted robbery. Members of the St. Charles Police Department Major Crimes Unit contacted the U.S. Marshals office in St. Louis, Missouri and investigators were able to track Winfrey to a residence in Oak Creek, Wisconsin. A collateral lead was sent to the GLRFTF who were then able to locate and arrest Winfrey. A search of Winfrey’s apartment incident to arrest revealed evidence linking him to the June 2004 killing. 	     Eric Winfrey   Wanted for Homicide

Pacific Southwest Regional Fugitive Task Force

Marty Paul Webb, aka “Hoover Jack,” was arrested in Los Angeles, California on May 20, 2005 by deputy United States marshals from the Central District of California and members of the Pacific Southwest Regional Fugitive Task Force (PSWRFTF), including agents from the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives, the United States Secret Service, and the Department of Housing and Urban Development – Office of Inspector General; and detectives and police officers from the Los Angeles Police Department (LAPD). Webb was wanted by the USMS pursuant to a federal warrant charging him with violating the terms of his supervised release and by the LAPD for murder. Webb, a career criminal with a past history that includes arrests for murder, assault, firearms violations, and robbery, had been released from federal prison and was on supervised release after serving a sentence for federal firearms violations in which he allegedly murdered a 22-year-old female in Los Angeles. In the current case, it is alleged that Webb shot his girlfriend and left her lying on a sidewalk in downtown Los Angeles where she was discovered by LAPD officers responding to a radio call. She was transported to a local hospital where she later died from the gunshot wound. Working in conjunction with the USMS Technical Operations Group, investigators identified Webb’s location and took him into custody without incident.

Capital Area Regional Fugitive Task Force

On May 20, 2005, Anthony Stanley and Jonathan White, who were wanted for armed robbery of an auto parts store in Bladensburg, Maryland, were located and arrested by members of the Capital Area Regional Fugitive Task Force (CARFTF). It is alleged that on May 9, 2005, Stanley and White robbed a cashier at gun point then fled the scene in a green Chevy Tahoe. On May 11, 2005, detectives from the Bladensburg Police Department secured warrants out of Prince Georges County, Maryland for their arrest. On May 19, 2005, the cases were turned over to the CARFTF for apprehension. The following day, CARFTF investigators located the two fugitives in Northwest Washington, DC and, following a brief foot chase, took both into custody. In addition to the armed robbery warrant, Jonathan White had outstanding warrants for fleeing and eluding in Washington, DC and Maryland and for failure to pay child support. Stanley and White are currently being held without bond.

Southeast Regional Fugitive Task Force

On May 18, 2005, investigators from the Southeast Regional Fugitive Task Force (SERFTF), in conjunction with the U.S. Marshals Technical Operations Group and the Atlanta Police Department, arrested Reginald Davis at a home in Lithonia, Georgia. Davis was wanted by the Atlanta Police Department for two counts of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon. One of the victims was a police officer. At 12:30 a.m., on the night of April 9, 2005, Davis and an off-duty Georgia State University police officer, who was still in uniform, became involved in a verbal altercation outside of Davis's residence. Davis entered his house, retrieved an AK-47 assault rifle, and fired multiple rounds at the officer, striking him twice. Davis then turned the gun on a bystander and fired several more rounds in his direction. One of the stray rounds entered the wall of a nearby home and struck a second victim in the arm. After the shooting, Davis immediately fled the area and warrants were issued for his arrest. On May 17, 2005, the Atlanta PD requested the assistance of the SERFTF. On May 18, 2005, information was developed that Davis was hiding at a residence in Lithonia, Georgia. Task force members conducting surveillance on the home spotted Davis entering and exiting the residence. When SERFTF members knocked and announced their presence at the front door, they got no answer and were forced to breach the door with a ram. The house was searched and Davis was taken into custody without incident. Davis has a lengthy and violent criminal history which includes thirty prior arrests for offenses such as assault, burglary, weapons violations, obstruction of officers, narcotics trafficking, and homicide.
